MESD at odds with city on annexation

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

Madison officials have renewed their request for an easement on Metro-East Sanitary District property to extend water service to the city's newly-annexed areas.

MESD Executive Director Walter "Shang" Greathouse has notified Madison officials that the district would not grant the easement. He and Board members Dave Bergfield and Hosea Slack had approved the easement during a special meeting March 25.

A LETTER from Casper Nighobossian, Madison city attorney, was hand-delivered to the MESD board during its meeting Friday. Michael Macek, the city's alarm supervisor and fire chief, delivered the letter.

Nighobossian said in the letter Madison was appealing to the entire MESD board of commissioners to review and grant an easement to Illinois American Water Company. He added that such easements for utilities have been routinely granted in the past by the board.

Further, he advised that the city council has given authority to take any legal action necessary to obtain said easement if your board does not grant same at this time," the letter said.

INCLUDED WITH Nighobossian's letter was a request from Illinois American for an easement to extend a water main from Bend Road down Old Route 67 to Ohio Street by Skelly Truck Plaza (also known as the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza). An easement would allow the water line to cross the Cahokia drainage ditch and the highway area.

MESD commissioners voted unanimously Friday to refer the letter to their attorney, John Sprague, for "study and recommendations."

Following the vote, Greathouse commented, "This is the one thing I absolutely detest... all this rush, rush. We don't care what kind of action is taken. We don't care what kind of disputes we get in."

COMMISSIONER Russell Robinson, who was absent during the March 25 special meeting, asked whether the board was misled when it met with Madison officials about the easement. Bergfield responded, "Yes."

Macek then addressed the board, saying, "We'd just like this to be expedited. We've got people in dire need of water."

Greathouse told him, "They've been on there 12 years without water. I'm not going to shove it (the easement action) through."

BERGFIELD ADDED, "In 1975 he (Ray Pratt, owner of Gateway) could have put a water line in for $35,000 and split it with four people. He's been working on this for a number of years."

Greathouse contended that supplying water to the area became an important issue because of the April 2 Madison city election.

He later told reporters, "I've got nothing against anybody out there. I'm not going to hurt anybody, but I'm not going to help anybody when it'll pit one group against another."

Vietnam vets remember

Tomorrow marks the 10th anniversary of the United States pullout from South Vietnam and the fall of Saigon.

Vietnam, a conflict in which 58,022 Americans were killed and 300,000 were wounded, has been one of the most controversial conflicts in which America has been involved.

Ten years after the United States left, some local veterans offered their reflections on the U.S. involvement and the pullout.

Gary Portell, a former Granite City resident, served in Cambodia with the First Air Cavalry Division of the U.S. Army. His tour of duty lasted two months and 20 days.

Portell was air lifted out of Cambodia after being injured twice in as many days.

When Portell was wounded, he was on a special assignment which involved establishing an LZ (landing zone) on the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Between 400 and 500 Americans landed in the zone. Two days later, only 13 were living, according to Portell.

Portell said the first day at the LZ, he was hit by mortar fragments, which caused injuries to his back, from his buttocks up to his neck. He was unable to be lifted out of the area because of the seriousness of the mission.

The next day, a mortar shell exploded about three feet in front of him, causing fragments to hit him in the head.

Portell suffered extensive damage to his face, which required 800 stitches. He lost one eye and a large amount of cartilage in his nose.

He was treated at a hospital in Vietnam, where his family was notified. He was then flown to Camp Drake, Japan, and later to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C., where he spent more than three months recovering.

Reflecting back on his time in Vietnam, Portell said the U.S. involvement "didn't accomplish anything but to leave lots of good men dead."

He said it was a waste of Vietnamese people, as well as Americans.

"There was only one fight worth anything going on there — and that was the fight to survive and get back home alive," Portell said.

Ten years after the pullout, Portell said he is frustrated by the large number of men still listed as Missing in Action.

"I can't understand why the U.S. government doesn't do something about the people that are still over there," Portell said. "I believe there have got to be some people still over there that are alive."

Portell currently is working at Cardinal Glennon Hospital, in the executive housekeeping department. He is an ordained Freewill Baptist minister.

Another veteran, Don Jones of Granite City, said he is "pretty touchy" about the whole subject of Vietnam.

Jones, the junior post commander-elect of the VFW Post 1300, served three tours of duty in Vietnam.

His first two tours, Jones was in the infantry squad of the U.S. Marines. His second tour was cut short by three days, when he was hit with mortar fragments during a battle near Khe Sanh, South Vietnam.

Jones suffered injuries to his back and lost hearing in one ear. He spent six months in a hospital, stateside, recovering from his wounds.

Jones requested another tour of duty after recovering and served from 1970 to 1971 as a gunner with a helicopter squad.

Jones said he is touchy about the conflict because the Americans could have won the war if they would have had a little more freedom.

"I lost a lot of good friends for nothing," Jones said. "We could have won if they would have let us."

Jones, who received numerous military commendations, said he thinks the U.S. should have been involved in the war.

"We served a good purpose there," Jones said.

Jones said he is frustrated by all of the negative media coverage of the conflict, especially the stories that have been airing about the U.S. pullout.

"All of the shows say that we (the U.S.) were in the wrong, but I think we were right in being there," Jones said.

Jones currently is employed as an

Government crop insurance agency using red ink

WASHINGTON — The federal agency that insures farmers' crops was so close to the edge of insolvency around the first of April that it had to transfer $50 million of its administrative funds to the claims section to meet the demands from policyholders.

Yet the program's manager intends to encourage the very practices that critics claim shamed the agency toward bankruptcy.

The Federal Crop Insurance Corp. was created in 1938 to spread the risks of an industry reeling from the impact of dust bowl, droughts and deluges during the Great Depression. For more than 40 years, through lean and fat, the FCIC operated in the black.

But starting in 1980, the agency suddenly began running in the red — and in a big way. From an initial loss of $199 million that year, the FCIC has now accumulated a debt of $851 million.

A series of bailouts has rescued the agency each year, but the early April transfer of funds was about as close as the FCIC has yet come to actual default. Although the agency manager, Merritt Sprague, insists that they never stopped paying claims, another official told us that they were "very selective on our payments" until the $50 million was transferred to the claims section.

When the FCIC first ran into trouble, it turned for help to another Agriculture Department agency, the Commodity Credit Corp., which lent it $250 million. That's long gone, and Commodity Credit has written the amount off as a bad debt.

The deadbeat agency next turned to Congress, which obligingly authorized the FCIC to sell stock in itself to a reluctant Treasury, up to a total of $500 million. Only $50 million of the worthless stock is left, and the FCC is now trying to force the Treasury to take that one last plunge so the early April transfer can be replaced and the agency stay in business.

How did the FCIC get into such a deplorable plight? Sprague maintains it was Mother Nature's fault, with an assist from Congress. Droughts and other crop destroyers took a heavy toll, and as part of the stock-sale bailout, Congress ordered the FCIC to broaden its coverage to many more crops and insure them for a greater proportion of the loss: 75 percent.

The FCIC dutifully broadened its coverage. But Congress also ordered the agency to make its insurance premiums "actuarially sound." This the FCIC failed to do.

Some critics see a cause-and-effect relationship between the FCIC's financial disaster and its rapid conversion to a "reinsurance" agency, which guarantees policies sold to farmers by private insurance companies. From 3 percent of its operation in 1981, reinsurance policies now comprise nearly 80 percent of the FCIC's business.

Like the premium rates it charges, the reinsurance agreements are favorable to the customer, not the government. The private insurance companies have an enhanced potential for profit — at little risk to themselves. Not surprisingly, they have gone looking for crops to insure (with FCIC reinsurance protection) with great enthusiasm.

To the astonishment and dismay of FCIC critics, Sprague recently warned agency employees that some of them would be losing their jobs — because the FCIC is to be converted "to strictly a reinsurance operation," which requires fewer personnel.

To some, it seems as if Sprague is fighting fire with gasoline.

TEMPERAMENT SURVEY: A management seminar organized by the Office of Personnel Management for the Defense Mapping Agency caused some disquiet among mid-level officials scheduled to attend. What riled them was a "temperament survey" the personnel management experts instructed the seminarians to fill out before the confab.

— "You daydream a great deal."
— "You take the lead in putting life into a dull party."
— "Most people are stupid."
— "Odors of perspiration disgust you."

Defense officials insisted the questionnaire was strictly voluntary.

The last Japanese soldier...

The last Japanese soldier from World War II was held up in a cave on Okinawa. A team of Americans and Japanese with loudspeakers were trying to persuade him to come out.

"Corporal Nakajinko, it's all right to surrender. The war is over."

"How do I know if you are lying to me?" said a plaintive voice from the cave.

"I can assure you, Nakajinko," a Japanese official yelled over the speaker. "All hostilities have ceased."

There was about three minutes of silence and then the voice said, "Who won?"

The official yelled back, "The Americans. The Japanese laid down their arms 40 years ago."

"This could be a trick. Prove to me that the United States won."

"The Americans now have a trade deficit with Japan of $37 billion," the officer shouted.

Art
Buchwald

"How can the Americans have a $37 billion trade deficit if Japan lost?"

"Because the Japanese rethought their strategy in 1945 and it made more sense to invade the United States with automobiles than with soldiers. The Americans are buying everything Japan produces, but the Japanese are not buying much of what the U.S. makes. It's all here in Fortune magazine if you want to read about it."

"Leave it at the mouth of the cave," the voice said.

A half hour later the rescue team was getting impatient.

"Nakajinko, are you now persuaded that Japan lost the war?"

"I am puzzled," the voice from the cave said. "If we lost, how can we export 25 percent more cars to the U.S. than we did last year?"

"Because we had a voluntary quota, and once it was lifted we decided this was the best time to flood the U.S. market."

The voice from the cave said, "Didn't Premier Nakasone realize this would anger the Americans?"

"He's trying to make up for it now, by asking all the Japanese to buy American goods."

Nakajinko. This is not time to discuss the merits of U.S. and Japanese manufactured goods. We have a trade mission in Washington trying to iron out things right now."

"Does that mean there is going to be another war?"

"Of course there isn't going to be another war. Countries don't go to war over trade differences."

"That's what the Japanese cabinet said on December 6th, 1941," Nakajinko cried.

The American liaison officer shouted through his bullhorn, "Look, if you don't come out in the next 30 minutes we're going to have to shoot you."

"Why? Because my country won't order any telecommunications equipment from you?"

"It has nothing to do with telecommunications equipment," the American yelled.

"It has to do with your people's refusal to buy Alka Seltzer."

"I think I'll stay here until the Americans and Japanese resolve their differences."

"Why, Nakajinko? Why?"

"Because if they don't, I'll just have to find myself another cave."

How to sell your one great gizmo

Let's say I have a gizmo for sale and there are already many gizmos on the market.

How do I get you to buy mine?

I can make a better gizmo than my competitors.

Or I can do a more effective job of advertising.

Or I can entice you to buy my gizmo with a bribe on the side.

"Kickback" is an ugly word. The acceptable word for the same thing is "rebate."

When anybody offers you a "rebate" for purchasing his product, who's he fooling?

That bribe has to be added to the price of the product he's peddling.

However the rebate practice may have become accepted procedure in the marketplace, it still encourages lesser products to charge higher prices so that they can afford to kickback cash.

And it encourages purchasers to ignore cash kickbacks when computing their income taxes.

What amounts to a few dollars or a few hundred at retail can amount to tens of thousands of dollars for wholesale buyers.

The Wall Street Journal recently learned of Mr. Donald G. Parker of Oklahoma City, a shoe buyer for T.G. & Y. Stores.

For favoring certain T.G. & Y. suppliers Mr. Parker is accused of collecting kickbacks which included cash and gifts worth more than half a million dollars.

Herbert Robinson, a New York lawyer specializing in white-collar crime, says, "It's pervasive. It's all over the place. It's in the largest chains and in the smallest chains; even in the most pious ones."

Comparatively few employers prosecute, considering court proceedings too costly and time consuming. Most crooked buyers are just fired. Nonetheless some of the more flagrant kickback schemes are being ventilated in court.

Paul
Harvey

Natco Industries operates 211 men's apparel shops; is accusing three former employees of collecting millions of kickbacks.

Part of the problem relates to the recent surge in imports. In many foreign countries, most all business is transacted with under-the-table cash amounting to as much as 15 percent of an order.

Graft is a way of life in many countries and their worst practices are rubbing off on us.

Some buyers accept bribes, to finance their own weaknesses for drugs, adultery or gambling.

The losers are consumers, and honest manufacturers.

Wal-Mart, based in Bentonville, Ark., will not allow its buyers even to accept a free lunch "because next comes dinner, then theatre tickets, then a trip to Las Vegas and, eventually cash kickbacks."

Yet, there are entirely honest and ethical merchants who are allowing themselves to be bribed by you with so-called "rebates." And the more inferior the merchandise, the more the seller can afford to "rebate."

Environmental goals remain

Tomorrow marks the fifteenth anniversary of the first Earth Day, which was founded on April 22, 1970.

The day is generally regarded as the beginning of the modern day environmental movement in America.

It was in the months immediately following Earth Day that most of the nation's first comprehensive laws for protecting the environment were promulgated and the federal Environmental Protection Agency and similar state agencies were established.

Throughout the 1970s there was a heightening of the public's environmental consciousness and a corresponding increase in enactment of laws and expenditure of public funds for programs to protect our land, water, and air.

These ranged from the National Environmental Protection Act (NEPA) to regulatory programs addressing air, noise and water pollution, to planning programs for coastal zone management and historic preservation, to hazardous and solid waste management programs.

Protecting and improving the environment became a national goal, and it is generally recognized that much progress was made during the decade in pursuit of that objective.

Yet, as we enter the mid-1980s, it is hard to measure how this decade will compare to the 1970s in terms of environmental improvement and public awareness of matters concerning ecology and the wise use of natural resources. This evaluation is difficult for several reasons, one of which is that it is easier to judge the past than the present.

Progress has been and is being made to restore the quality of our air, land and water. However, given the magnitude of our problems — problems dealing with toxic and non-toxic waste, air pollutants, soil erosion, the diminishing of our forest, and the loss of invaluable habitat for the scarce wildlife — one has to wonder if we are doing enough, soon enough.

Many of the nation's major environmental laws are up for renewal at the present time. Ten of them have already expired or will do so this year.

While the cost of compliance with these existing laws is estimated to be $500 billion for the period of 1981 to 1989, the U.S. is already five to ten years behind meeting the goals established in the 1970s.

The Congressional Budget Office has found that environmental regulations in general have not resulted in significant productivity losses or costs to businesses. In 1974, while industries made initial investments for pollution control equipment, U.S. expenditures totaled 0.41 percent of the gross domestic product. That figure fell to 0.30 in 1979 and was further reduced to 0.28 percent by 1982.

The problems Illinoisans face in thinking about and addressing environmental and resource matters are not unlike those of most other states, but we do have circumstances which make our problems unique.

As a relatively populous state with over 11 million people and one of the country's largest metropolitan centers, we Illinoisans — due to sheer numbers — have a considerable impact on the land.

All of us produce waste, drive automobiles, purchase and produce goods, and routinely engage in dozens of other activities which directly affect the environment. If we are not cognizant of the consequences of our actions, it is difficult to realize that each of us must play a part in the continuing effort to protect the environment and use natural resources wisely.

To have our lakes polluted by pesticides to the point that eating the fish from them is dangerous to our health, to see our fellow citizens continue to litter roadways, and to fail to take simple measures to conserve energy — these are only a few examples of problems we create for ourselves, and can control by ourselves, if we have the knowledge, the desire and the determination to do so.

While most of the emotion and fervor that accompanied the original Earth Day of 1970 is gone, it is important to remember there is much remaining to be done if we are to restore and protect the environment and use natural resources wisely.

VFW Post 1300 in May 11 POW/MIA candlelight vigil

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300 of Granite City will participate in a 24-hour candlelight vigil honoring the 105 Illinois servicemen still listed as missing in the Vietnam War.

The Granite City area has two men unaccounted for in the Vietnam War: Capt. John Bernard Caussey and Warrant Officer James Leslie Dayton.

The candlelight vigil will be part of a two-day POW/MIA program being sponsored by Highland VFW Post 5694. Events connected with the observance are open to any organization or individual wishing to participate.

The vigil starts at noon Saturday, May 11, and continues until noon Sunday, May 12.

Ron Hessebauer of Highland, POW/MIA state chairman and Post 5694 commander, said most VFW posts in Madison County and adjacent areas are expected to take part in the program.

Granite City VFW Post 1300 and its auxiliary unit will each sponsor a candle during the vigil.

Hessebauer explained that each candle represents a specific

POW/MIA serviceman with pertinent information about the man. The name of the sponsoring post, unit or individual is listed on the candle or candle placemat.

Sponsorship of a vigil candle costs $10 and availability is on a first come, first served basis, he said.

Color guard teams, consisting of members of local posts, will stand guard over the POW/MIA candles throughout the program, the state chairman reported at a meeting here with Post 1300 members.

Also part of the weekend activities will be a dance from 8 p.m. Saturday, May 11, until midnight at the Highland Post Home. Admission is $5 per person at the door and the event is also open to the public.

Profits from the two-day program will be donated to the League of Families of the POWs, Hessebauer said.

Further information about the sponsorship of candles may be obtained from Hessebauer at 1-654-9610 or Russell Huhn at 1-654-7253.

The VFW state chairman also reported plans are being made for a POW/MIA Run for Freedom project Sunday, July 14.

The activity is being arranged to call attention to prisoners of war and missing in action servicemen from Illinois, especially those missing in Southeast Asia.

Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans' organizations in the state are sponsoring the long-distance relay run.

Runners will begin from one of eight locations throughout the state and run to Springfield.

At the Illinois State Fairgrounds in Springfield, the runners will be greeted by guest celebrities, speakers, honored runners, a balloon release and an aircraft flyover, symbolizing the missing men.

Participants will start running on various days during the week preceding their scheduled arrival in Springfield. They are to reach there before 1 p.m. July 14.

Application forms for the run now are available at VFW Post 1300, James Farmer, post commander, announced today. Those interested may call the post home at 877-8764 or Farmer at 452-9057.

About 77 people are organizing procedures at the various starting points, which include the Chicago area, Rockford, Quincy, Marion, Mattoon, Danville and the Rock Island-Moline area.

Summer school bid approved

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Staff writer

A proposal to operate summer school at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center has been accepted by the Illinois State Board of Education and the Illinois Department of Public Aid.

Peter Ponce, VLTC administrator, advised the Venice Board of Education at its meeting Thursday night that contracts are being formulated now and he will confer with Supt. of Schools Robert N. Vickers concerning staffing arrangements.

The adult vocational education center, financed with federal and state funds and administered by the Venice School District, usually operates on a 9-month schedule.

The summer school program will start June 3 and continue through Aug. 23, Ponce said.

Subjects to be offered during the summer months involve studies under the General Educational Development and Adult Basic Education programs.

The 1985-86 calendar for the Venice public schools was adopted by the board and calls for 183 teaching days and three institute days.

A teachers' workshop on Aug. 26 opens the school year, with pupils attending their first classes Aug. 27. Holidays include Columbus Day, Oct. 14, Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, and Thanksgiving, Nov. 28 and 29.

Dec. 20 will be the last day of school before Christmas vacation and classes will resume on Jan. 2.

In the second semester, school will be dismissed Jan. 30 for Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday and Feb. 12 for Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Spring vacation is scheduled from March 24-28.

Vickers said the Venice school calendar is now coordinated with those adopted by the Granite City and Madison school districts, with classes starting and ending on the same dates and Easter and Christmas vacation periods scheduled at the same time.

A proposal to install electric power strips in the typing classroom at a cost of $750 was accepted by the board. A changeover from manual machines to electric typewriters required the additional outlets.

Permission was granted to Dr. Alice Purdes, a Venice-Lincoln teacher, to attend a special conference on literacy May 21 in Springfield.

The conference is being sponsored by the Illinois Department of Adult and Continuing Education and the Illinois Department of Public Education.

A report from Marleann Hankla, also a Venice teacher, on her attendance April 11 at the Illinois Speech, Hearing and Language Association's convention in Chicago was presented to the board.

Approval was given to renew membership in the Illinois High School Association and the Mississippi Valley Writing Project.

Also authorized was the annual sports banquet for Venice High School at 7 p.m. Wednesday, May 22, at the Heritage House off Interstate 270, St. Louis County.

Park swim pool may open on Memorial Day weekend

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

The Wilson Park swimming pool should be ready to open Memorial Day weekend.

So said Dave Nolan, director of parks and recreation for the Granite City Park District last Wednesday.

"If the weather holds up, we can stay a week ahead of schedule," Nolan said. "Right now, we're working on painting the pool. We have the sides complete and are working on painting the bottom of the pool."

Nolan said if that is completed, the district can then think about pressurizing lines and filling the pool.

"If we get all these things completed like we think we can, we can complete a week ahead of schedule. Barring any major problems, we should be able to open it up Memorial Day weekend."

The district had numerous problems with the 45-year-old pool last year. The opening was delayed past Memorial Day weekend and then the pool was closed again for a week in early June to complete repairs.

In November, the district tried to pass a bond issue to provide funds for a new pool, but it failed.

Accreditation extended

John C. Rush, principal of Venice High School, has received notice that the school's North Central Association accreditation has been extended through the 1984-85 school year following review and approval of its report at the association's annual meeting. Accreditation is granted for one year at a time.

Dr. John S. Kemp, NCA state director at the University of Illinois, said VHS meets the "minimal yet rigorous preconditions for effective education" established by the association. Through voluntary membership in the NCA, the school and the people in the district have committed themselves to the pursuit of quality in education.

Delinquent sewer bills MESD target

by SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

Metro-East Sanitary District officials want the money that's owed to them, and they're proposing a "plan of attack" to collect on delinquent sewer bills.

MESD Executive Director Walter "Shang" Greathouse told commissioners Friday that the district needs to find a way to collect on $200,000 in delinquent bills. "We might call the mayors in, discuss this, show them the delinquencies, and pick a plan of attack to try to clean up on these bills," he said.

"I'M SURE WE could pick up a lot of the money by taking people to small claims court and, of course, through liens. I don't want to look like I'm picking on people or favoring people. If we go, I want to go all the way," he continued.

Greathouse said processing a bill costs the district about 50 cents, and many delinquent bills are being sent to homes that are boarded up or burned out.

Commissioner Robert Bergman told Greathouse the sanitary district should work out an agreement with the water company to ascertain which houses are no longer receiving service.

GREATHOUSE SAID he would present a plan to collect delinquencies at the next board meeting May 1.

Last August, Greathouse proposed that the district ask community officials to cooperate in collecting delinquent sewer bills by physically "knocking on doors" and collecting the bills themselves.

In other action Friday, the board approved a bid of $12,800 to provide a four-wheel-drive Bronco vehicle for the district. Bo Beckmann Ford of Ellinsville submitted the only bid.

THE BOARD also approved purchase of a $12,813 tractor from Erb Equipment Co. in Mitchell.

In addition, the commissioners decided to solicit bids for a mower. An earlier mower bid from Erb was rejected when the board realized the bid advertisement named a specific brand of mower.

A 25-year easement agreement with Illinois Bell for a telephone line was approved. The sanitary district receives $8.40 a year for the easement.

Net income up for Central Banc system

Central Banc System Inc. has announced a 38 percent increase in net income for the year ending Dec. 31, 1984.

The operating results were in comments to stockholders at their annual meeting in April.

Central Banc System Inc. is one of the St. Louis area's 20 largest bank holding companies and operates banks in the Illinois cities of Granite City, Glen Carbon, Carlinville and Marine.

E. A. Karandjeff, chairman, also noted a 73 percent rise in total assets, now $193 million.

Central Banc System Inc. paid dividends of $2.15 per share after reporting increased earnings per share, $7.95, for 1984.

Karandjeff said the 38 percent increase in per share earnings is attributable to an increase in the net interest margin and the continual growth of the lead bank, Central Bank — Granite City, formerly the Trust and Savings Bank.

Central Bank — Granite City, recently installed its sixth "total teller" at the new National Food Store.

DAN AND JIM PETERS

Rock music seminar slams Satan's role

A rock music seminar entitled "What the Devil's Wrong With Rock Music?" will be presented at First Assembly of God, 1103 West Belt Line, Collinsville, by the Peters brothers from St. Paul, Minn., at 7 p.m. May 2.

They have made appearances on ABC Nightline with Ted Koppel, CBS News with Dan Rather, and PM Magazine. Their evidence will be presented in a free seminar to which the public is invited.

The lyrics, lifestyles and intentions of rock musicians will be discussed with the aid of a multimedia format.

Dan and Jim Peters are graduates of North Central Bible College and are ordained ministers, pastoring at Zion Christian Center, St. Paul, for the past 10 years.

The seminar began in October 1979 when the brothers became "fed up" with the effects of rock music on young minds and began looking for the root cause.

Conclusions of their research allege that many musicians were involved in witchcraft, homosexuality, transvestitism and drugs and that much of their music openly promotes indulgence in the same.

Since the Peters' first seminar, $4 million in rock and roll material has been destroyed and, they say, thousands of young people have been "set free from these damaging influences."

Recently, they have begun a national petition drive calling on the rock music industry to rate albums.

If you are installing a furnace, consider this: an electric heat pump is over 150% energy efficient and provides both heating and air conditioning. This means substantial savings on your utility bill, month after month, year after year.

An electric heat pump delivers much more energy efficiency than even the most advanced oil, propane or gas furnaces.

During the summer, the heat pumps acts like a central air conditioning system to cool the entire house. In cold weather, the heat pump gathers the sun's warmth from outdoor air, concentrates it and circulates it throughout your home.

Granite City to honor Da Maxvill

By KEN MOSER

Garrett Morris' famous line on Saturday Night Live could easily be used by Dal Maxvill, the baseball Cardinals' rookie general manager: "Baseball has been very, very good to me."

And vice-versa, of course. Maxvill, 46, certainly hasn't forgotten much of his past. Especially his days growing up in Granite City and the strides he made to get where he is today. Nor is he likely to forget May 18, when he will be honored by Granite City people.

Like a ballplayer running from first to third base, Maxvill has gone from being a whiz infielder to coach and ultimately to general manager.

It's been more than two months since he landed the GM position with the Redbirds. His new office space is located at 300 Stadium Plaza, while his home continues to be in Florissant. Up until 1985, Maxvill lived in Granite City for the first 27 years of his life and played ball here as well.

"They had a terrific little league program that they called the police league at the time, before they became Knouy Leagues," Maxvill said, relaxing in his office directly to the right of that of August A. Busch Jr., Cardinal chairman.

"I played on the Salvation Army ball club, and the Atomic Kids ball club, and then with Local 67, and by then it became the Knouy Leagues. Granite City is a fine city to live in. At Wilson Park, I played baseball and swam all the time. It was a good city, and it still is," he said.

When he was busy playing baseball, he was either selling newspapers, umpiring little league ballgames, or working at Granite City Steel. His father worked as a drillman for General Steel Industries, then known as the Commonwealth.

Out on the ballfield, Maxvill played for a number of different coaches as a youngster, including his mom, who managed the Atomic Kids in 1951.

DAL MAXVILL, Cardinal general manager

"None of the fathers — they were all working — could manage the ball club, so she took over and managed the team for us for a year," he recalled.

"Oh yeah," Maxvill said, laughing. "Everybody got to play. We only had about 11 guys on the team. We didn't have 15 to 20 back on those days."

"We all played. And with some kids being on vacation or sick or whatever, there were a lot of times when we just had nine. It was a lot of fun. She did a great job for us."

Maxie hasn't always been just an infielder. He used to play every position imaginable on the baseball diamond from pitcher to left fielder. "I just played wherever they needed me," he said.

By the time he cracked the varsity baseball roster at Granite City High in 1955 and '56, he became a shortstop almost exclusively. There, too, was where he received his greatest influence. Give that credit to Head Coach Al Lewis Sr.

"I credit Al with teaching me the very sound education and the basic fundamentals of the game from every position's standpoint," Maxvill said. "He coached us and not only taught us what we had to do at our position, but what everybody else had to do on the field."

"I appreciated that because, when I went away to play pro ball, I felt I was at a definite advantage over the people I was competing with. They weren't aware of some of those things he had taught me."

He went on to play four years at Washington University in St. Louis under Irv Utz. Before heading to the minors, Maxvill earned a degree in electrical engineering.

Then came 1962, Maxvill's big break. After hitting .348 in the minors, he was called up to play with the big boys in St. Louis. He had no problem remembering that telephone call informing him of the move.

"It was a terrific feeling," he said. A boyhood dream was being fulfilled. "I was at the Double A club, Tulsa, and we were down in San Antonio when I got a phone call to come up to the big leagues. It was quite a thrill."

Even better, he got to play on the same team and ballfield with Stan (The Man) Musial. Musial had been the one person Maxvill idolized most as a kid. Maxvill calls him "the greatest player I've ever played with," and Willie Mays "the best I've played against."

No. 27 was the number Maxvill wore on his jersey. "I was given that number when I got here, and I decided to keep that," he said. Now, left-fielder Lonnie Smith wears the number.

"I wouldn't wear a '13' and I wouldn't wear a '7,'" Maxvill said. "I wouldn't do something like that, although some guys do." Beyond that, Maxie said he had no other real superstitions.

Maxvill's uniform number may not have varied, but the color of the baseball caps he wore did. As a player, he wore the colors of the Redbirds, the Oakland Athletics and the Pittsburgh Pirates. As a coach, he sported caps belonging to the New York Mets, the Cards and the Atlanta Braves.

"Who is he most loyal to?" "Still a Cardinal, for sure," Maxvill said with a smile and without any hesitation. When asked if he bleeds Cardinal Red much the same way Manager Tommy Lasorda is said to bleed Dodger Blue, Maxvill replied, "Bingo."

He got hooked on baseball and the Cardinals in the early 1940s. His parents, both avid fans of the sport, would often bring little Dal along with them to watch the Redbirds play at the old Sportsman's Park. He was four years old then.

"I developed a real love for the game and the Cardinals at an early age," he said, "and it's still there." Maxie got to play on five World Series teams, four of them capturing the title.

He saw some action in the 1964 series with the world-best Redbirds and was one of the key players for the '67 champion Cardinals. In '68, the Birds lost the World Series to Detroit, 4-3. Maxvill went to the Oakland A's in '72 and played on championship teams there that season and 1974.

He became well-known for his "great glove and weak bat." His batting average hovered around the .220 mark most of his career, but he was known for helpful hits in pressure situations.

The once slick infielder was asked to compare himself with the Cards' current $2 million shortstop, Ozzie Smith. "I don't think anybody compares with Ozzie as a shortstop," he said. "He's the best I've ever seen. This goes from old timers who saw the great shortstops from the 1920s and '30s, to the people who saw Marty Marion play shortstop, to those who saw Don Kessinger, Larry Bowa, myself and others play. He's the best."

Like Smith, Maxvill is called a class act on and off the field. He frequently returns to his home town of Granite City for benefits and fund raisers. His motivation: "It's always worth it to me, and it's a worthy endeavor they're involved in. I figure if I can help a little bit, I can pay back some of the things I enjoyed as a youth in Granite City."

This May, Maxvill will be bestowed yet another award. This time it's the De La Roche Award, which is being presented to him by St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City for his community involvement in this area.

Baseball continues to be very, very good to him. And vice-versa.

Q: In the past you've mentioned the growth of credit card fraud. Are there any measures being taken to curb this?

A: Most laws which govern credit card fraud are at the state level. However, Congress is considering a number of proposals which would provide curbs on the federal level for credit card crimes. One such proposal would outlaw the manufacture, purchase, sale or transfer of a bogus card. The possession of five or more of them would authorize the Secret Service to investigate. Another bill, already passed by the house, would prohibit the fraudulent use of a credit card number. The House has also passed another bill which would prohibit the possession of 15 or more cards of illegal manufacture, and make it a federal crime to use stolen cards, or counterfeiting devices to obtain $1,000 or more in cash or merchandise in a single year. Currently federal law applies when someone illegally charges $1,000 or more on a single card.

District rejects slide bid

By RACHEL NEWSOME

The Venice Park Board at a special meeting Wednesday rejected a $289,315 bid from Poetker Construction, general contractors, on construction of the proposed Lee Park water slide.

Henry Gabriel, architect, told the board four general contractors were invited to bid on the project. Only one, however, submitted a bid.

The board gave Gabriel authority to negotiate with Poetker to determine the feasibility of reducing the bid. If a reduction of about $89,000 is impossible, then re-advertisement for bids will occur. Gabriel promised to obtain Poetker's final answer by early the next week.

Dave Wiesehan, another Granite City resident, served in Quinon, Vietnam, from February 1968 to February 1969. He was stationed with the Army strategic communications unit.

Wiesehan said his opinion toward the U.S. involvement in Vietnam has changed over the years.

"My idea, when I was in-country, was that it was my duty to be there," Wiesehan said. "I thought we were helping people."

"I don't really remember my reaction to the final pullout of troops, though. I probably was depressed that we were being overrun and had lost the war."

Wiesehan said his education about the war since returning has changed his mind.

"Vietnam was a big tragedy and we (the U.S.) never should have been there — it was a waste of 58,000 lives," Wiesehan said.

He said he has become a buff on the war.

"I read everything I can about it and watch all of the specials on television," Wiesehan said.

Wiesehan also has become involved with the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia. He has led petition campaigns locally that ask the Vietnamese and Laotian governments for the release of remains of Americans and information concerning others listed as missing in action.

Ten years have passed since the close of this conflict half-way across the world. But the years and the miles, the analysis and the controversy, cannot dim the memories of those who experienced Vietnam.

Tea

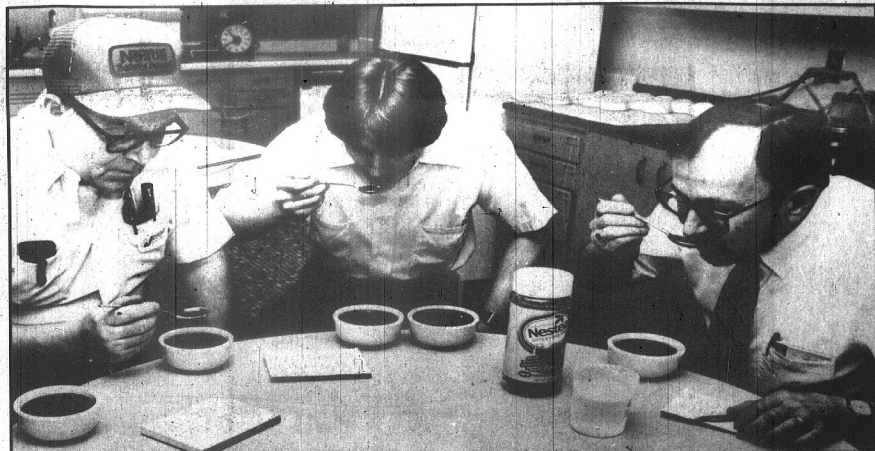

IS IT SOUP YET? The tea is sipped out of soup bowls.

UMMMM GOOD! Kenny Dalton passes judgement on the latest brew.

DALTON spits it out into a spittoon below (not his lap!).

WRIGHT, Dalton and Shuran take a sip.

Tasting that tea-tea-tea ta-tea-tea — Nestea tea

By DAVE WHALEY
Staff writer

Going to the grocery store is something we all have to do. We need food and drink to survive.

But how do we know what we're buying is any good? Sure, the advertisements tell us it's good and we should get it, but how do we know that particular batch of tea we're buying doesn't have something wrong with it?

That's why we have tea tasters.

Tea tasters "sit in judgement" at the Nestle's factory, 2101 Adams St., all day tasting the brew as it is prepared and ready to be placed in jars.

"Most of the staff here will get involved in it (tasting)," said Walter Shuran, manager of quality control at the tea plant. "We might have as many as 10 people taste any particular batch."

When the dinner bell rings, the tasters take their seats around the table in the plant's lab, and it's "bottoms up."

Shuran, plant manager Roger Higgins and lab technicians Burton Wright and Kenny Dalton drink the brew out of soup bowls.

"We have to sit down here and test every batch that comes in," Shuran said. "That might be once an hour or so."

As one might imagine, tasting tea once an hour every hour can get to even the most ardent tea-lover.

The tasters, Dalton in particular, spit out the brew once they have swirled it around for a few seconds and captured the flavor. Every taster has a spittoon available to dispose of the drink.

But spitting it out doesn't mean the brew is rejected. It's just tough to keep sipping tea all day.

The process is all part of the world's largest instant tea plant. At one time, Nestle's made almost 80 percent of the instant tea in the world.

Shuran and Higgins wouldn't say what that percentage is now, but it's safe to say Nestle's is still way up there.

"We make tea for countries all over the world," Higgins said. "We have to make adjustments for everyone's specifications, but we're happy to do it."

Oh, yes. The sound isn't that pleasant for those of you who don't like to listen to people drink, so be prepared if you ever happen to be near. The tasters slurp it up noisily.

Between the slurping and spitting, things don't seem that pleasant, but it's all done for the consumers' benefit, and this particular batch is deemed fit to drink.

The tea is then tested for clarity by holding a glass up against a light with small numbers printed on the bulb. If the numbers can be read clearly through the glass, the tea gets a passing grade.

After a day of this, when several more batches have been given the seal of approval and sent to the assembly line—where it is put in jars and sent out for consumption—you have to wonder if the tasters go home and relax with, as the English might say... a spot of tea.

Food that's made fast

By Verne Palmer
Copley News Service

If newspaper headlines are any indication, the typical American housewife has moved out of the kitchen and into the work force, and she's not coming back.

But while the experts are pondering the impact this trend is having on the economy, society and the family, no one is studying the impact on that old American staple, the home-cooked meal.

The prospects don't look good. When Mom flies across the threshold at 5:35 p.m., with hunger pangs gnawing at her own stomach and the kids clamoring for dinner, it's all too easy to fall back on Hamburger Helper for a fast meal.

Food manufacturers, quick to see a new market, are responding with new lines of colorfully packaged, boxed, bagged and canned convenience foods, and consumers are snapping them up in droves.

The sad thing is that they're paying more (money) for less (nutrition and fiber), and it's all unnecessary.

Mother Nature provided the first "fast foods" millions of years ago, and no one's ever improved on her product line.

Fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs, seafood and lean meats can be combined with cheese and whole-grain breads, rolls and pasta for meals that taste good, look good and — best of all — are on the table in under 30 minutes.

Tossed green salads are quick, and so are sliced cantaloupe, honeydew, casaba and tomatoes. Cottage cheese served with any one of a number of fresh fruits is another possibility.

Lamb chops, pork chops and steaks all grill in minutes, and most fish fillets can be broiled or baked just as quickly. Breaded turkey breast slices can be pan-fried almost as fast as you can turn them.

Whole-grain breads, muffins and rolls are an easy addition that requires no extra time. Alternate them with rice, pasta or one of the many forms of frozen potatoes that take just minutes to prepare.

One-dish meals can be lifesavers, as well. Here's an easy one that consists of sauteing sliced zucchini, summer and yellow squash along with paper-thin carrots and chopped onion in a large frying pan. Season with dill weed, salt and pepper and add a diced ham steak. Smother the whole thing with grated cheese and run it under the broiler. Serve it with a tossed green salad and whole-grain muffins.

Beating the clock and eating well at the same time can be a real challenge. Here are some recipes to start you on the right track.

COUNTRY TURKEY BREAST

1 egg, slightly beaten
3 tbsps. milk
1 lb. turkey breast slices
1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
1 tomato, sliced
1 tsp. whole oregano
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 cup (4 ozs.) grated mozzarella or Jack cheese
Parsley

Mix together egg and milk. Dip turkey slices into egg mixture and then coat both sides with combined bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese. Place slices in single layer on greased baking sheet. Bake 8 to 10 minutes at 450 F until golden. Arrange turkey and tomato slices on ovenproof platter. Sprinkle with seasonings and top with cheese. Place under broiler until cheese bubbles. Garnish with parsley.

Makes 4 servings.

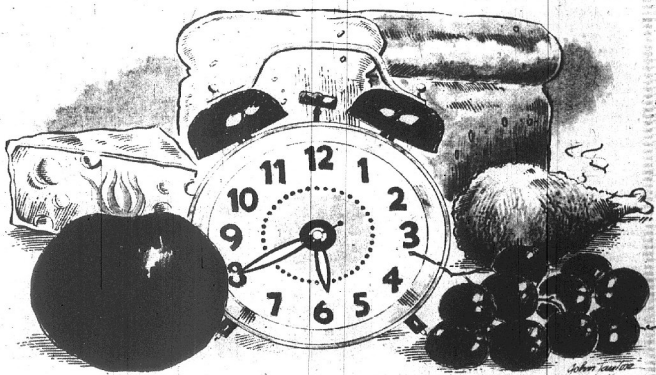

STEAK SMOTHERED WITH VEGETABLES

2 beef club steaks (about 12 ozs. each)
1 green pepper, chopped
1 onion, chopped
1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 tomatoes, chopped
1 tsp. dried basil leaves
1/2 tsp. ground oregano
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/4 tps. cornstarch
1/4 cup beef broth

Trim outside layer of fat from steaks. Brush large non-stick surface skillet with vegetable oil. Pan broil steaks over moderate heat, turning occasionally to brown beef evenly. Cook about 10 minutes or until desired doneness. Remove steaks to warm platter; keep warm.

Stir in green pepper, onion, mushrooms and garlic. Cook and stir over moderate heat 5 minutes, until onion is softened. Stir in tomatoes, basil, oregano and salt; cover. Simmer 3 to 5 minutes until tomatoes are hot.

Mix cornstarch and beef broth; stir into vegetable mixture. Cook and stir about 2 minutes until mixture thickens. Remove bones from steaks. Cut each steak in half. Arrange on platter; pour vegetable mixture on top.
Makes 4 servings.

servings.

Group's dessert

Desserts should reflect the time of year to be appealing. The delicateness of lighter choices like angel food cake, cream puffs, fresh fruit tarts and airy refrigerator desserts speak of spring parties.

Check to see that correct pan sizes are available for more servings.

Many crowd-size recipes call for one of the following: jelly roll pans, tube pans, large loaf pans, sheet cake pans, springform pans or 13x9-inch cake pans.

For time savings, consider using a dessert mix. A two-layer cake mix, for instance, can be baked in a 13x9-inch pan. Or bake a family-size brownie mix in a jelly roll pan.

Brown 3/4 lb. ground beef; drain.

Add 1/2 cup barbecue sauce; 1 tbsps.

minced onion, 2 tbsps. brown sugar, cup, making sure dough goes up to the edge of the cup. Spoon meat mixture into cups and sprinkle with shredded cheese. Bake at 400° for 10 to 12 minutes.

Crystal Gayle to appear at Fox Theatre

Crystal Gayle and Michael Martin Murphey will be appearing at The Fox Theatre April 30 through May 5. With well over two dozen hit records to her credit, Gayle has come a long way from her roots in the Appalachian coal mining town of Paintsville, Ky.

While still in school, she signed her first recording contract with Decca Records. Her debut single, written by her sister Loretta Lynn, "I've Cried (The Blue Night, Out Of My Eyes)" reached the top 25 on national country music charts. Three more singles were released by Decca over the next three years and each found a place on the charts. In 1973, she signed with United Artists Records and entered into a highly productive phase of her career.

Prior to entering the studio earlier this year to cut "Cage The Songbird," Gayle had scored still another hit, "You And I," a smash duet with labelmate Eddie Rabbit, as well as recording the soundtrack to Francis Ford Coppola's film, "One From The Heart," with singer/songwriter Tom Waits.

Waits' original, "Take Me Home," which appears as the closing cut on "Cage The Songbird," was first heard on the film soundtrack. Gayle so loved the song she asked him to write additional lyrics, which are heard for the first time in the "Cage The Songbird" version.

Her hit singles include: "Wrong Road Again," "One More Time," "Somebody Loves You," "Don't It Make Your Brown Eyes Blue," "Why Have You Left The One You Left Me For," "It's Like We Never Said Goodbye," "Too Many Lovers" and "The Woman In Me."

Gayle also has a shelf full of awards to go along with her hit singles and albums. Both the Country Music Association and The Academy of Country Music named her Outstanding Female Vocalist of the Year in 1977.

A year later she won a Grammy for Country Female Vocalist of the Year. Gayle also has been the recipient of two AMTA Jukebox Awards and several AMA Awards for Favorite Female Country Artist.

Throughout his singing and songwriting career, Michael Martin Murphey has continually explored new musical territories.

In 1975, from his "Blue Sky, Night Thunder" album, came "Wildfire," a self-composed, number-one hit single. The song received a BMI award for over a million performances on radio and is still being heard for the first time by new listeners every day.

Barbecue open slated at Landing

It will soon be time to make the riverfront "sizzle" by registering for the third annual Riverfront Barbecue Open May 18 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Laclede's Landing. All proceeds will benefit the National Kidney Foundation of Eastern Missouri and Metro East.

This year's competition will pit barbecuers against each other for prizes in beef, pork and chicken categories, and for the grand barbecue champion award. The grand prize winner will receive $200, and a $100 cash prize will be awarded to the winner of each cooking category.

Sponsors are Busch, KUSA radio and Vess Beverages. The barbecue battle will commence as the grill lights at 11 a.m., with samples available to the public by 11 a.m.

The public is invited to save the barbecue bits until 3 p.m., when a panel of celebrities will judge the entries. Entertainment and refreshments will be available until 10 p.m.

Registration forms for the barbecue are available through the Kidney Foundation offices, 225 S. Meramec, Suite 200, Clayton, or by calling 1-314-853-5858.

Magic House to host evening for adults only

The Magic House, a not-for-profit participatory museum, will hold an adults only evening on Saturday, May 4, from 6 to 10 p.m.

The adult evenings are held each first Saturday. These 18 years or older have the museum to themselves, with no children in attendance.

Regular admission is $2.50 for adults. Group rates also are available, and parking is free.

The Magic House is located at 516 S. Kirkwood Road. The telephone number is 1-314-822-8900.

Newton at Fox

The Fabulous Fox Theatre is bringing back, by popular demand, Rayne Newton, from May 14 through 19.

Last year, Newton traveled 262,000 miles to 89 cities, from Las Vegas to London, shattering box office records wherever he appeared. The Fourth of July concert on the Mall in Washington, D.C., attracted 325,000 people, the largest crowd for a single performer in the history of the annual event.

Newton has been named to the "Ten Outstanding Young Men in America" roster by the National Jaycees and was put in the Hollywood Walk of Fame by the Academy of Variety and Cabaret Artists. The University of Nevada, Las Vegas, presented him with an Honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters, one of many humanitarian awards he has received.

Learning the Basics. Area youths may attend a clinic, May 17 to learn how the "Muppet Show on Tour" is produced. The show will be presented at Kiel Auditorium May 16 through 19.

Youth clinics scheduled for 'Muppet Show on Tour'

For the first time in St. Louis, special clinics have been arranged for area youth during the upcoming performances of the "Muppet Show on Tour" at Kiel Auditorium.

Seven performances of the show are coming to Kiel Auditorium May 16-19 and schools, day care centers, Scouts and other youth groups will be able to take advantage of a "first time offer" this year.

A clinic seminar will begin at 10:30 a.m. Friday, May 17, prior to the school show, and at 7:30 p.m. the same day prior to the Scout performance. The clinic will be conducted in the assembly hall of Kiel, adjacent to the main auditorium.

Scouts and youth groups will meet show personnel, including the company manager, show choreographer, actors and dancers. The clinic will cover backstage details of the show, including how costumes are developed, how the set changes are made and how the show travels from city to city. Cast members will explain what it is like to be a performer on tour.

Discounts are available for the youth shows, and the clinic is being presented at no additional cost.

The Muppets will be appearing in St. Louis in life-sized costumes. The "Muppet Show on Tour" is a Vee Corp. production starring Jim Henson's Muppets, in cooperation with Henson Associates Inc. The script was written by veteran Muppet writers Fred Newman and Mark Saltzman, and the show is produced by Bob Shipstad.

Tickets are on sale at the Kiel box office and all Ticketmaster locations, or by calling Dialtix at 1-314-421-1400. There are special discounts for children 12 years of age or younger at every performance.

Crafts festival to open at Rural Life Center May 4

A 19th century crafts festival, May 4 and 5, opens the '85 season at Clayville Rural Life Center, 14 miles west of Springfield, Ill.

From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, Clayville will be filled with sights and sounds of a century past, as some 80 craft people from throughout the Midwest demonstrate rural skills typical of the 1840s and '50s. At Broadwell's Inn, where travelers and teamsters once traded stories with drovers and prairie politicians, such crafts as quilting, needlepoint, spinning and weaving will be under way. Out back, costumed artisans will demonstrate techniques involved in blending herbs and fashioning knives. Elsewhere on the grounds, visitors can check out the fine points of hand-crafting willow furniture and carrying duck decoys. In all, some 95 skills and crafts will be demonstrated.

The aroma of food cooking in an iron fireplace pot, horse and buggy rides, dulcimer music and square dancing will recreate the hospitality of a 19th century gathering on the Illinois prairie. Food, including pioneer specialties prepared on the grounds, will be sold in the food service area, and handcrafted items may be purchased at the Pioneer Shop.

Admission to the 14th annual Clayville Spring Crafts Festival is $2 for adults; $1 for senior citizens. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Celebration to salute settlers

Bob Beatty, producer of Silver Dollar City's newly conceived "Settlers Celebration," has announced that the event will broaden the entertainment offered in years past as simply a crafts festival. Opening Saturday, May 4, the festival continues through Sunday, May 19 (closed Mondays and Tuesdays).

"The crafts are now augmented with the music and the dances and the foods which were brought here by the various nationalities that first settled inland America," the English, Scotch, Irish, French, German, Spanish, and the Ozarks' native Osage Indians," Beatty said.

In foods, he said, the variety is to include such unusual fare as the Indians' fry bread and grape dumplings along with the Germans' "best of the worst" and English chewing candy.

Music of the varied nationalities is to be represented by, among others, the folk group Seartaglen, with songs of the British Isles, and additional instrumentalists and singers will bring what Beatty termed "a special excitement" to the music of still other nations. The Checkerboard Morris Dancers will have their troupe of six young women performing English folk dances, while the exceptional color the Spanish dance is the specialty of Grupo Folklorico de Espana.

Among the crafts — "30 crafts in addition to SDC's permanent 30," Beatty said — is a builder of 19th century horse-drawn buggies and a woman who hand-spins yarn from her pet Angora rabbits.

The address for free information on the festival and SDC's new season is Miss Katy, Chamber of Commerce, Silver Dollar City, Marvel Cave Park, Mo. 65616.

war, but after that penicillin was almost immediately available to the hospitals. We were beginning to save many lives.

"After penicillin came the mycins. With achromycin, people no longer needed long hospitalization for pneumonia. Through the years, the line of drugs has continued to improve.

"When I go into the pharmacy and see what is in those cabinets, my-my," she exclaimed. "Very few drugs are mixed in the modern-day pharmacy. Tablets, capsules and ready-made solutions are now ordered from pharmaceutical companies."

During her early career, the sister worked 12-hour days and often was called out at night to fill a prescription. She lived with the other nuns in a dormitory connected to the hospital by a tunnel.

Her obedience and hard work seemed to have been rewarded because she was able to teach again. The hospital ran a nursing school and, along with her other duties, Sr. Mary Benedict taught pharmacology, chemistry and mathematics there for 19 years, until the school was closed in favor of enlarging the hospital. "I loved it because I was teaching again," she said.

"In those early days, the community was poor. People couldn't pay their bills. One farmer's wife was in, and he couldn't pay so he came in with two baby pigs. They were kept in an empty room near the pharmacy for a few days.

"Some of the staff even named them Archie and Rosie. I didn't think it was so funny, but the nuns' mother house in Florissant took them."

As the hospital grew and the field of pharmacology advanced, Sr. Mary Benedict made sure the pharmacy kept up with everything. It was moved to its present location in 1960. The quarters are still adequate, if a little cramped, according to Dave Davis, R.Ph., current pharmacy director.

Davis started working at SEMC's pharmacy in 1969 under Sr. Mary Benedict. "I found her real good to work with. She knows the place forward, backward and sideways," he said, calling her "remarkable."

Sr. Mary Benedict at that time had been exploring a new way of delivering medicine to the patients, called unit dosing. "In the late '60s, a lot of things were brewing in the field, and Sister always wanted to keep on top of things. She is willing to innovate and try something new," he added.

Unit dosing is now the accepted method in most hospitals, offering safer distribution of medication and saving nursing time. Rather than several days' supply of a medication going to the nursing station to be dispensed to a particular patient, single dose pre-packaged medications are sent. In this way, the medications can be better identified until the time the nurse opens the packet at the patient's bedside. She also was instrumental in implementing an improved method for administering drugs intravenously. When Davis suggested the idea to her, she postponed her unit dosing pilot project because she felt the IV mixture program would be better for the hospital at that time.

Through this program, if medications are to be added to a patient's IV, they are premixed in the pharmacy according to physicians' orders. In this way, drug interactions can be more easily avoided.

Both unit dosing and the IV mixture program are in use today and make SEMC's pharmacy one of the most complete in this area, according to Davis. He added, "Sister paved the way to allow us to handle the one million drug doses and 55,000 IV admixtures required by patients here yearly."

In 1972, Sr. Mary Benedict retired as pharmacy director, on the advice of her physician, but continues to work on a part-time basis as pharmacy advisor. She works on special pharmacy projects. According to Davis, "She has a tremendous store of knowledge and we want to utilize her as a resource person."

The pharmacy has come a long way from the days when she ran it single-handedly. It now employs 25 people, including nine pharmacists, and has two satellites outside the main pharmacy. Looking back on it all, as the daughter of a German portfeuilleur (leather craftsman) and a mother who was an artist sewing for wealthy people, Sister says, "My vocation was a call that I have followed and never regretted."

May ban no-Medicaid rules at nursing homes

Legislation prohibiting nursing homes from discriminating against Medicaid recipients or applicants for Medicaid was approved April 23 by the House Human Services Committee.

Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan said House Bill 1410, drafted by Hartigan's Division of Senior Citizen Advocacy, was approved on a 14-0 vote.

It would ban the following types of Medicaid discrimination:

1. The discharge of a resident when the resident exhausts his or her financial assets and must apply for Medicaid.
2. The solicitation of mandatory contributions from a Medicaid applicant or resident or his or her family members, as a precondition to admission or continued residence in a nursing home.

3. A requirement that prospective residents and/or their families sign a contract agreeing to remain as private-pay patients for a specified period, of time before seeking Medicaid eligibility.

At a statewide Senior Citizen Advocacy Conference in the summer of 1984, a resolution was adopted by delegates from across Illinois calling for passage of such legislation.

"Many nursing homes feel they are not adequately reimbursed by the state for Medicaid residents," Hartigan said. "Consequently, it is sometimes difficult for persons who must rely on Medicaid to find quality nursing home care. This bill ensures that Medicaid residents will not be discriminated against by nursing homes on the basis of ability to pay."

Cole, Chomko lift GCHS by SWC foe West

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Executive Sports Editor
GRANITE CITY — Their purpose was the same, but their reasons for what they did was different.

They are Jim Chomko and Shane Cole, the two stars of the game Thursday night in the Warriors' first victory — the one that counted in the conference race — over Southwestwestern Conference foe Belleville West. The victory was the first of two for the Warriors that night as they swept a baseball double-header from the Maroons 3-2 and 10-4.

Chomko, a junior, swatted a bases-loaded single to center field in the bottom of the sixth inning which scored Dennis Gendron and evened the game at two.

Then it was Cole's turn. A senior following Chomko in the lineup, Cole blasted a shot to the deepest part of center field, about 385 feet away. Had Cole pulled the ball to either the right or left field line, the shot would have easily been a home run. Instead, the Maroons' Chris Allard caught Cole's cannon-like drive just feet from the 396-foot mark at straight away center.

But even though Cole didn't reach base, the long fly ball accomplished what he wanted it to.

"It was a sacrifice," Cole explained. "I got the run home which broke the tie. That's what was most important."

Cole's shot enabled Matt Roe to dash home from third. The hit was so deep that Roe was nearly all the way home before the ball, after being relayed to the cut-off man, reached the infield.

Chomko and Cole had a similar purpose: do what was necessary to get the run home and aid their team in victory.

But their reasons for wanting the clutch hits were as different as the flight of the balls that resounded off their aluminum bats.

"I've been going through a little slump lately. I've gone 0-5 before today and I was looking to bounce back," Chomko reasoned.

"It was a fastball down the middle," Chomko said of his hit which just eluded the Maroons' infield.

"I'm just happy that I was able to make contact, get the RBI and help the team."

Unlike Chomko, who has been suffering through a slump, Cole has been hitting the ball consistently well. During the Warriors' last five games, Cole has hit safely in each, managing 10 hits in 17 at bats. His consecutive string leads the team.

"I was thinking about the long ball, I guess I'm always thinking about getting the long hit," Cole said. "Jimmy did the job to get one run across and I felt like it was up to me to get the other."

Then Cole explained his reason for batting in the game-winning run.

"I guess I was trying to make up for the blunder over on third base — in the fifth inning, I felt pretty bad about that. I felt like it cost us a run so I was trying to make up for it," Cole said.

In the fifth inning with the score tied at one, Cole reached on a single, advance to second on a sacrifice bunt by Randy Burgess and advanced to third when Pat Cathey ripped a single to short left field.

With one out and runners on first and third, it appeared the Warriors were set to break the deadlock score.

Then Kurt Hylla smashed a line drive, right at Maroon second baseman Mark Lanyon. Had the ball been to either side it may have gotten through the infield and scored Cole, and maybe even the speedy Cathey.

But as it was, Lanyon moved just enough to catch the line shot and then threw to third to catch Cole in five hits while striking out eight and walking none.

"I felt pretty bad about it (being doubled off) and I know coach wasn't happy about it. It meant a lot to bat in the winning run after that," Cole said.

Chomko and Cole are two of the Warriors' toughest outs at the plate. Chomko was leading the Southwestwestern Conference last week with a .462 batting average, but during his slump has fallen to .392, still second in the league.

Cole isn't doing much worse, batting a respectable .358. Considering both Chomko's and Cole's hitting ability, West coach, Charlie Hasenstab, provided some interesting strategy in Thursday's game.

Hasenstab elected to walk Bill Moore to pitch to Chomko and ultimately Cole.

"They (Granite City) had just the one out at the time. We were looking for a force out at home or a double play, so we loaded them (the bases) up," Hasenstab said. "We know Chomko can hit, and it was a gamble. When you're put in that situation you've got to gamble. Sometimes you gamble and win. Sometimes you gamble and lose. Today we gambled and lost."

As important as Chomko and Cole were to the Warrior victory, it was the throwing arm of right-handed pitcher Allen Zentgraf which kept the Maroons' offense in check and allowed Chomko and Cole to shine.

In his first full-game performance this season, Zentgraf allowed just five hits while striking out eight and walking none.

"I really felt pretty good today," Zentgraf said. "I think it's probably my best game of the season. I know it's the first time I've gone all seven. I've had a pretty slow start (this season)."

The reason for Zentgraf's slow start can be attributed to a broken thumb on his throwing hand. In a cast for six weeks, Zentgraf wasn't only restricted in his movement of his thumb, but he wasn't able to move his wrist as well.

"It's been a long recovery, but I felt all together today. My curve ball really worked well. And, thanks to Jimmy and Shane, I got a win out of it, my second of the season. I guess I'm gonna have to buy them a couple of steaks."

Warrior coach Bob Stegemeyer, visibly pleased with the victory, concurred with Zentgraf's self-appraisal.

"This was Allen's best performance of the season. He threw a couple good games for us last year, but I don't believe he's ever gone a full game without walking anyone like he has today," Stegemeyer said.

"Allen had good command of his pitches and his curve ball really seemed to be working well. I know it kept a lot of their kids back on their heels."

In the second game, the night cap, the Warriors used an eight-run third inning to bolt ahead of the Maroons and eventually coast to their six-run victory.

Supported by a cast mainly of underclassmen, Tim Gray gave up just seven hits, struck out nine and walked none.

The hitting star of the second game was Moore who picked up three hits, a single and two doubles. The victories, coupled with Friday's 2-1, eighth inning victory over Edwardsville (see related story), improves the Warriors record to 14-8 and 4-3 in the Southwestwestern Conference. For Granite City, its third eighth victory in their last nine outings.

Friday's losses dropped the Maroons to 6-7 on the season and 3-4 in the league.

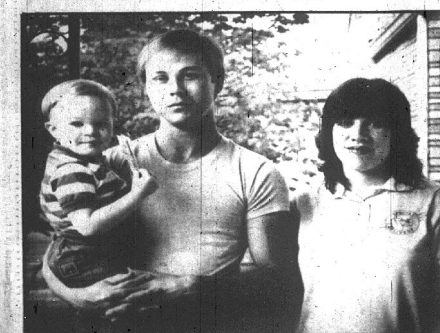

Monday, the Warriors travel to Belleville to take on Althoff. Action begins at 4 p.m.

NOT IN TIME. Granite City High School's Bill Moore pounds his glove as Belleville West's Bruce Badgley successfully steals second base during the fourth inning of Thursday's Southwestwestern Conference baseball game at Varsity Field. Badgley may have beaten the Warriors on this effort, but the Warriors swept the double-header 3-2 and 10-4.

Warriors edge Tigers in extra innings

EDWARDSVILLE — Same scenario, different place.

It late in the game. The Warriors are trailing by a run. Granite City manages to get a man on base and work him around to third, ready to score.

Up walks Shane Cole. One, two pitches are fired across the plate. On the third pitch, Cole reads himself, the bat back near his shoulder. The pitch comes speeding toward the plate and he smacks a long ball to deep center field.

The center fielder catches the ball for the second out. But before Cole trots back to the bench to have a seat, in trots the winning run from third base.

Sound familiar? That's the way it was Thursday night when the Warriors bettered the Maroons. And, you know something else? That's the way it was Friday night, too, as Granite City bettered Edwardsville 2-1 in the eighth inning.

The overtime victory was the Warriors' eighth in their last nine attempts.

Playing what Warrior Coach Bob Stegemeyer calls "their best defensive ball game of the season," the Warriors managed just three hits to the Tigers' six. But the big equalizer in the game was the Warriors' ability to cut down three Edwardsville runners at the plate.

Trailing 1-0 in the top of the seventh, the Warriors' Randy Burgess reached base. Fred Becker pinch ran for Burgess and managed to steal second.

Pat Cathey singled to move Becker to third for Kurt Hylla who singled to score Becker.

Then after holding off the Tigers in their half of the seventh, the Warriors got the game-winner in the eighth as Cole batted in Bill Moore, who had reached on a walk to start the inning. Jim Chomko, who too played a big part in Thursday's victory, also helped bring Moore across the plate, sacrificing a long ball to move Moore to third.

Enroute to the victory, Stegemeyer used three pitchers. Matt Roe started the game and lasted through six and a third innings before Darin Spalding relieved.

Spalding pitched superbly for one and two-thirds innings before hard-throwing right-hander Eric Gray was called in to close the door on the Tigers.

Spalding got the win and Gray got the save.

12 apply to fill Catalpa's vacancy

COLLINSVILLE — About a dozen people have applied for the Collinsville High School head basketball coaching job, including three or four from the college coaching ranks. Unit 10 Superintendent John Renfro said Wednesday.

He said unless something unforeseen occurs, a recommendation will be made to the school board before the end of the school year in May. The job became vacant April 8 when the school board fired Gene Catalpa, the coach for the past seven years.

There are two candidates from inside the district. He declined to name the applicants.

Of the high school applicants from Illinois, some are from high school coaches with a lot of experience and good records, while others are from high school coaches who have less experience and want to move to a larger school. Renfro said.

No deadline has been set for receipt of applications. The district will consider coaching quality and experience and whether the applicant's teaching specialty is compatible with a teaching vacancy in Unit 10.

Renfro said. "That's a major ingredient," he said.

There has been one interview with a candidate from outside the district and one with an applicant from Unit 10. Two more interviews have been scheduled.

The salary is non-negotiable. Pay will be determined by existing teaching and coaching salary schedules based on the person's years of experience and educational background, the superintendent said.

The district hasn't formally advertised the vacancy, although the word was spread by the St. Louis news media and by not fication from the district to university placement offices, Renfro said. Catalpa was fired several weeks after the 1984-85 Kahoks completed a 15-12 season. The Kahoks were eliminated from the Edwardsville Class AA Regional by Granite City.

Fletcher, East Central College Coach Bob Bone, Bradley University assistant Roger Bohmstedt, O'Fallon assistant Denny Pace, Lincoln Hill, Coach Loren Wallace and Collinsville junior varsity coach John Ostank have all been mentioned as possible replacements for Catalpa.

Fletcher, however, has said he is not interested in the job.

Boys, Girls Warriors finish 2nd in county

Athletes Set Several Personal Bests

EDWARDSVILLE — The "PB's for GC" were sprinkled all over the Southern Illinois University track Thursday at the Annual Madison County Red Division Track Meet.

"PB" in short or personal best, and there were a lot of them for Granite City as the Warriors made a formidable showing among the county's four large schools.

The rain Tuesday, which made poets of some and came down in buckets forcing the meet to be canceled, was no where to be found. The sun was shining bright through what clouds there were.

Edwardsville and Alton tied for the boys' overall championship (each with 79). Granite City was second.

Meanwhile, Edwardsville dethroned the defending champion Warriors 108-57 in the girls' division. Better still than the weather report — or even the team battle — was the performance of several Warriors.

Senior Debbie Brandt set a new county — and school — record in winning the discus. Her toss was a lofty 131-feet 1-inch. She shattered the old mark of 113-5 1/2.

"It (the record) really wasn't that much of a surprise," admitted Warrior Coach Dave McClain. "Debbie is a very hard worker in the off-season. She is always working on her release and form."

But Brandt wasn't the only Warriors to wear the winning gold.

Scott Cant was a double winner, capturing 110 high hurdles (15.3 seconds, equalling his personal best in that event) and the 300 low hurdles (41.9).

Eric Graves, the current Madison County record holder in the long jump, won his second straight title in that event with a leap of 20-feet 2-inches. Graves also took the high jump on fewer misses at 6-feet 6-inches.

It was quite a contrast from a year ago when the bar was at 6-feet 10-inches with three jumpers still in the competition.

"The high jumpers were a little off," McClain said. "I really don't know why. Maybe it was the conditions, you never know."

Granite City's other first place finish was turned in by the Warriors' two-mile relay. The quartet of John Varadian, Dan Sullivan, Doug Limbaugh and Darren Bernaick clocked personal best of 8:37.

"It was a real strong performance by them," said McClain.

In other events, Granite City got a second place from Evan Ellsworth in the shot put. His toss of 42-feet 6-inches was a season high.

Bernaick placed second in the 800 with a time of 2:02. Varadian also took second in the 1,600, crossing the line in 4:54.

The 400 relay team of Dave Gushoff, Pat Keeling, Graves and Steve Terziosky was second with season best of 45.5 seconds.

The Warriors also got third places from Dan Lienemann in the discus. He threw a personal best of 133-feet 6-inches.

Granite's 800 meter relay team of Tud Gervell, Keeling, Terziosky and McCormick placed third with another season high (1:37.6).

What hurt the Redbirds, who toyed with the same competition a week earlier, was the loss of distance runner Norm Bilsbury (pulled muscle). Bilsbury runs the mile and two-mile.

In the girls' division, the Warriors Terri Selph was second in the discus. Brandt was second in the shot put.

Junior Loretta Cox won the high jump at 4-feet 8-inches and Lisa Wiser took first in the 440 (64.5). Julie Gabriel took second in the 800 meters with a seasonal best of 2:38. Marianne Finn was second in the 3:200. She was clocked at 13:29.

Collinsville scored 38 points to finish in third. Alton totaled 34 points.

"We're kind of down on numbers," McClain said of the girls' team.

The Warriors were without the services of Lora Wiser who is still nursing a sore ankle. Also sprinter Wendy Knollman missed the meet with a pulled muscle. Knollman runs the 100, 200 and two relay events.

Granite City will host Collinsville and St. Paul for a triangular meet at 4 p.m. on Monday.

GCCHS girls run roughshod over Riverview

By JOE THOMPSON

GRANITE CITY — When Granite City High School fielded girls soccer, of major importance was the schedule. There was no point in having a team if there was no one to play against.

With Collinsville the only other Illinois team in the area which has girls soccer, Granite City was forced to turn to soccer rich St. Louis for competition.

Joe Fedora, administrative assistant of physical education and athletics in Granite City, remembered the generosity of the St. Louis schools in overall compmentary remarks he offered Thursday for the Warriors' soccer program.

"The St. Louis schools bent over backwards to get a schedule for us," said Fedora. "We're grateful to them."

In light of the Warriors' exceptional play this season, one wonders if St. Louis schools regret any their helpfulness.

The Warriors, with Fedora looking on, did it again Thursday. They pummeled another St. Louis school. The Warriors hiked their record to 7-1, shellacking the Riverview Gardens Rams here, 3-0.

The three goals may not suggest a romp, but the true pasting came on the field.

There, the Warriors fired shot, after shot, after shot, after...

They finished with 40 shots in all. The fact they put only three into the back of the Rams' net served to threaten foreclosure on a few more strands of hair from the scalp of Warrior coach Mike Velloff.

"R-U-S-T-A-T-I-N-G," said Velloff.

The exasperation of the Warriors' dominance everywhere but on the soccer field struck a nerve with statistician Stacey Tucker. Even after the Warriors kicked open the Rams net with two goals late in the second half, it still was not enough to suit Tucker.

"Thirty six shots on goal. C'mon," she announced. Lowering her voice, she added, "you'd think out of that many shots we'd have a few more goals."

The Warriors also forced eight corner kicks. The Rams, in turn, mustered no corner kicks and only seven shots on goal — six in the first half. Michelle Jones and Diana Takmanjan divided time in the Warrior net.

The fact the Warriors have dominated the left side of the wondrous column this season has enhanced their reputation with schools on the west side of the Mississippi.

Velloff said that Ram coach Harvey Stocker approached him before the game. "We understand you've beaten everybody in our conference," Stocker said.

Stocker's lofty expectations of the Warriors wasn't diminished any after the game. "They're the best we've played this year," he said. The loss dropped the Rams below the .500 mark.

"They're solid, solid defensively," Stocker said of the Warriors. "Their forwards are speedy."

While the back of the Rams' net was spared some disappointment than the size of the assault on it probably warranted, the three goals it did yield were works of beauty. Also hard work.

The Warriors' first tally combined both elements. After a through ball from midfielder Linda Kuber, Robin York managed to force a Norm Dahm is a positive thinker. "I've set a lot of goals," said Dahm who was named last week as the new wrestling coach at Granite City Center. "Some of them are long range, but certainly feasible."

Dahm, 24, of Milledgeville will take over for Walt Whitaker who had been at the junior college for two years — one as the Stars' head coach.

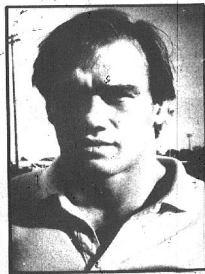

Terry Collins, athletic director at GCC, said there three main factors in Dahm's hiring.

"We were looking for a person of strong character, a hard worker and a good recruiter with a lot of enthusiasm."

Dahm is currently student teaching at Belleville East High School and has been the assistant coach Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for the past year.

"I've learned a lot just being at SIU and watching Larry Cougar wrestling coach Kristoff," Dahm said.

Dahm said he is not certain if he

Norm Dahm
...GCC's new mat coach will keep his present position at SIUE.

"That's still up in the air right now," he said. "It really depends on the work load."

A graduate of Belleville West High School, Dahm hails from a strong wrestling family. His brother, Bob, won a state championship for the Maroons in 1962.

Dahm, himself, was a four-year varsity letterman at West. He is a past All-America in both Greco-Roman and Freestyle wrestling and was invited to the Olympic tryouts last year.

He received his bachelor's degree in chemistry and biology from Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield and is currently working on a master's degree at SIUE.

As a collegiate wrestler, Dahm was invited to the NCAA-Division I National Tournament, but never did place.

Dahm said with his present ties at SIUE, he would like to set up a "feeder" system between the Edwardsville campus and Granite City Center.

"It's something that we have talked about," he said. "It could be an ideal situation for both programs."

Dahm said that athletes could attend GCC and then transfer to SIUE after two years with a familiarity of the Cougar programs. Both squads will workout together three days a week, Dahm said.

"It would also help if someone needs to develop more skills or needs to concentrate on their studies, which is the main purpose of the junior college."

Collins feels the idea is a good one. "We would love to have that relationship, no question about it," he said. "If we would do that, it would be a major plus for us."

Dahm explained that similar relationships between large universities and junior colleges are commonplace around the country.

"Did you ever wonder why all of the sudden a school will have a good player from a junior college area along?" Dahm asked.

You don't hear about it a lot, but it's there behind the scenes. A lot of four-year colleges recommend junior colleges. They correspond a lot," he added.

Dahm said he has already started on the recruiting trail and hopes to have letters of intent inked in the near future.

Whitaker leaves the Stars after compiling a 2-7 record in 1984 as head coach.

"Wait got the program off the ground, showing that Granite City Center was committed," Collins said of the former coach.

"He developed good wrestlers and helped get us on the map and a reputation."

Last year, Whitaker simultaneously held the head coaching job and GCC and was an assistant at Granite City High School.

"He worked above and beyond the call of duty," Collins said.

Whitaker, who coached at Granite City North for 10 years, will continue his present teaching duties at Granite City High School.

"I'm leaving to devote full time the high school and to apply for the opening when Schmitt retires," Whitaker said.

"Schmitt" is Warrior wrestling coach Bill Schmitt who plans to retire at the of the school year after 35 years at Granite City.

But, at the same time, Whitaker leaves with mixed feelings.

"I really thank them for the opportunity to coach on the junior college level," he said. "They (GCC) have a good young program. It can do nothing but grow."

Casserly becomes Stars' sixth recruit

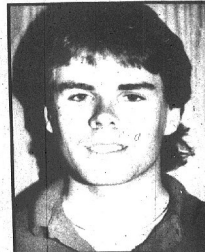

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Executive Sports Editor

GRANITE CITY — Continuing his quest to improve upon last year's 5-11 record, Granite City Center soccer coach Larry Petri signed his sixth recruit of the season Thursday, bringing the number of his 1985 roster to 13.

Petri's latest recruit is Matt Casserly, 19, a graduate and soccer player from Riverview Gardens (Mo.) High School. The Stars' coach is hoping for as many as 18 new recruits this season, enough he hopes will make for a stronger team this year and even stronger next year.

Casserly, who attended Florissant Valley Junior College last semester, played for Dean Schlenker at Riverview. Both a midfielder and a forward, the 6-foot, 175-pound Casserly scored five goals his senior year at Riverview and picked up 12 assists.

And, although he hasn't played soccer for Florissant Valley, Casserly has been keeping his foot in the game by playing on three different club teams, two on Sunday and another on Tuesday.

"I really want to play college soccer. It's something I want real bad," Casserly said. "Although, soccer isn't the only reason for coming here, I think they've got some good programs here. Getting my education is my main priority," said Casserly who is majoring in accounting.

And what personal game skills does Casserly bring to the Stars' camp?

"I'm pretty aggressive. I think that may be my strong suit. I like physical soccer, but I'm not one who plays a finesse game. That's the key — physical soccer with finesse."

It's that formula — physical soccer and finesse — that both Casserly and Petri hope will lift the Stars past old nemesis Lewis & Clark, Florissant Valley and Meramec.

"That'd be nice, beating Lewis and Clark," Casserly said while Petri grinned. "I know a lot of people there and at Lewis and Clark and Meramec. I'd like to beat those guys."

In addition to beating some near rivals, Casserly has set another goal for himself as a GCC soccer player.

"I hope it doesn't sound selfish, but I'd like to get some individual honors too. Maybe, become all-conference, all-junior college area or even All-American," Casserly said. "It's something to shoot for."

Casserly becomes the fourth kicker on the team to have played at Riverview Gardens. In addition to Casserly, Tim Perano, Mike Caples and Marty Rocco have also prepped at Riverview.

And it was through that association that Petri and Casserly met.

"I met him through some of the other guys. We played in a tournament in Springfield (Ill.) and he was invited to come along. He's a good player and his size as well as his leadership ability should help our program," Petri said.

Casserly will enter GCC as a sophomore this fall, but athletically he'll still have two years of eligibility.

"We're looking for some leadership from him," Petri said.

Firearm deer permits due Tuesday

SPRINGFIELD — Deer permit application forms for the 1985 season are now available, according to Conservation Director Michael Witte. People who applied for a permit last year should soon be receiving a pre-printed application in the mail, he added.

The 1985 Illinois firearm deer season will extend over two weekends: Nov. 15-17, and Dec. 13-15. Application forms are still being accepted through April 30 for the computerized lottery which will be held after the applications are processed.

Application forms for firearm and archery permits may be picked up at the DOC's Permit Office, 524 S. Second St., Springfield, or the DOC regional offices in Alton, Benton, Sterling, Spring Grove, Champaign, and at the Chicago office, State of Illinois Building, 100 W. Randolph St.

Firearm deer hunting is allowed in all counties except Cook, DuPage, Kane and Lake, Witte said. Counties are allocated via the lottery system.

Witte reminded hunters that firearm permit applications must be postmarked before midnight, April 30 to qualify.

Persons applying for a permit must enclose an individual $15 personal check or money order payable to the Department of Conservation, along with the appropriate 1985 application form.

corner kick. That was the hard work.

The beauty came when Kuberski lofted the corner kick past the first wall of the Rams defense to where Sherry Dawson was positioned. Dawson knocked the cross into the net.

"Picture perfect," said Velloff. Kuberski was also delighted. A big thrill!

"A really big thrill," she said. "It was a really big hit that sparked the Warriors to their second goal. After Dawson's tally, the missed chances accumulated rapidly."

With about 15 minutes left in the match, midfielder Stacie Foreman was knocked to the ground on what the officials ruled an overzealous tackle. Foreman grimaced but picked herself up.

"When she came up she was hurting," said Velloff. "We coach our girls to stay down. But she stood up."

After Foreman regained her feet, she lined the direct free kick awarded the Warriors on the foul into the left corner of the Rams' net. Then she came out of the game.

"She was hurting. She took a pretty good shot," said Velloff. "But the hurt she landed on the Rams was more telling. It woke us up," said Velloff.

With the Warriors' bombardment of the Rams goal continuing, York put the match from reach, masterfully sending a shot into a corner of the goal. Only time prevented a larger margin.

The Warriors have three matches left before bidding adieu to their inaugural season. With no state title and no conference championship to shoot for, their goals may be few in number. But not in scope.

Defender Maria Farra said the girls' goal is to defeat Collinsville in the rematch May 11. "And also to play well," she said.

Velloff can relate to that. The girls, he said, have demonstrated they can play quality soccer.

"And they have their pride," said Velloff. "Anybody gives 120 percent for pride."

NOTES: The junior varsity Warriors also scored a victory Thursday, defeating the Rams' jayvee team, 2-1, on goals by Maria Tonis-kottler and Laura Madman.

Park baseball parade May 4

The Granite City Park District is announcing that the annual baseball parade will be held on Saturday, May 4. This is the official kickoff for the baseball program held in Wilson Park.

The parade will feature Granite City's Dal Maxvill, General Manager of the St. Louis Baseball Cardinals and his wife. They will unveil the sign that names baseball diamond #1 in Wilson Park, "Dal Maxvill Field." The decision to do this was made late last summer to honor Maxvill for his continued public service in Granite City, particularly in the sports field.

Park Board Commissioners, the mayor and mayor-elect, city clerk, city treasurer, township supervisor and school board president have all been invited to participate in the opening day celebration.

Also to be featured in the parade are the many boys and girls who play on teams in the park district baseball leagues, along with their coaches and managers.

The parade will begin at 1 p.m., weather permitting. The route of the parade is from 24th and Madison Avenue to 29th Street, West, to State Street, and North to the entrance to Wilson Park baseball fields.

All the players and dignitaries will gather at diamond No. 1 for a short ceremony and the unveiling of the Dal Maxvill Field sign. After this, several league games will be played.

Elks soccer team shines

The Granite City Elks girls' under 14 soccer team has been making a lot of noise lately. The kind of noise that people can't help noticing.

The last week in March, in an indoor Norco (North St. Louis County) soccer tournament in Delwood, the local kickers beat the Jamestown Stars 5-2.

Then they held the Coca-Cola sponsored team to a scoreless tie before beating the Dalton Soccer Club 5-2 to win the consolation final.

Then, the first weekend in April and playing in the Andy Waite Outdoor Tournament in Collinsville, the Elks defeated Collinsville United 1-0, tied Jamestown Stars and beat Buach 1-0 to bring home that first-place trophy.

Members of the team include Shelly Reynolds, Maryanne Goclan, Beth Epperson, Jennifer Debeve, Angela Blason, Jennifer Moniz, Carrie Rose, Christian Kasporovich, Lisa Kult, Darla Wilmsmeyer, Jennifer Hagnauer, Rene Walker, Carolyn James, Stacie Hewlett and Erin Bayer.
